MESSAGE

I am glad to know that the civilian personnel of Armed Forces Headquarters are celebrating AFHQ Day on 01st August, 2016.

This AFHQ day is dedicated to the civilian personnel of Armed Forces Headquarters services who work shoulder to shoulder with the Service personnel in the Service Headquarters and provide them logistic support in manpower, quartering, material management, administration and human resource development and give important contribution in other spheres. Along with the Armed Forces, they work for the safety of the nation with dedication and commitment.

Since 1942, these civilian personnel have been playing commendable role of a bridge between Service Headquarters and Ministry of Defence, both during peace and war. They are continuously adapting themselves according to the changing requirements of Indian Armed Forces and are present with them strongly at every occasion.

It is also a matter of great pleasure that the civilian personnel of Armed Forces Headquarters have proved their ability and devotion in sports, dance, music, drama and other cultural activities and have won accolades for Armed Forces Headquarters in various regional and national events.

I extend my greetings to all personnel of AFHQ and their family members and wish for their bright future on the occasion of AFHQ Day 2016.
